Any Casualties?

Ice wagon smoking this morning like in the good old summer time.

Thursday wasn't a day of Thanksgiving for the ducks.

While Thanksgiving is past, it's not too late to be thankful. The hash is all gone.

S. S. will leave it to Ray Jordan to say whether or not the Pirates played well yesterday.

The mosquitoes enjoyed an elegant Thanksgiving repast at Lake Shore during the football game.

Anybody doubting mosquitoes have gone into winter quarters should motor out the back road to El Vista.

Our idea of the guy who ought to get married is the one who will rush through a turkey dinner in order to fill a date with a fair young thing.

Another reason S. S. does not believe that women will ever be successful as policemen is because none of them will want to be known as a plain clothes woman.

Tris Speaker, Homer Summa, Larry Woodell, Cedric Darst, Pete Lapan and Elmo Rigney are former Texans who accumulated a batting mark of 200 or better in the American league last season for fifteen or more games.

Red Cross Needs Workers for Xmas Program

Did you have a husband, son or sweet-heart in France?
Do you remember the heart-gripping days when nothing was too great to be done for the boys over there?
Though out of war peace has come, lady in the service are still abroad, thousands of them. Can't Port Arthur care for a hundred?

Red Cross headquarters officials emphasized again today that workers are still needed to help take care of the local quota of comfort kits for Marine forces on active duty in Italy. The 100 kits must be dispatched soon, if they are to arrive during Christmas.

As pointed out in a recent call for volunteers, officials of the chapter believe that the spirit of this work is such that it should be done by volunteer workers, as the kits are in effect expression of remembrance in this country to young men in the active service of their country on a foreign station.

In connection with the call, the local chapter released a letter from Starr Cadwallader, manager of the Southwestern division, Red Cross, thanking it for acceptance of its quota, and complimenting the chapter on the comprehensive program of public service through activities both large and small, which has been built up here.

HARVEY SHOVES TWO CHILDREN ON ACCELERATOR HURT BY AUTOS

Ambassador Says Britain Must Earn U. S. Money

LONDON, Dec. 1.—On the eve of the Franco-British conference in London this week to discuss debt cancellation among European nations, Ambassador Harvey served notice last night in an address before the Anglo-American society of Manchester that America is not in the debt cancellation business.

The ambassador discussed the revival of trade of England. He said that America wanted other nations to get her money if they could but not by "playing baby."

"We want all peoples," he said, "to make money, to make our money if they can, by work but not by lying down nor pleading baby."

"Uncle Sam resembles the deity in one respect, at any rate," he continued, "he prefers to help those who at least try to help themselves."

He acknowledged America's position as a creditor nation but asked "What of it? It isn't a crime to be a creditor nation, is it? I ask you Englishmen, you ought to know."

Little Tot Not Seriously, One Driver Claims

Two automobile drivers reported to the police Thursday following accidents in which two children, one an unidentified white girl, about 4 years old and the other a negro boy, were injured, police records show. Neither of the children was seriously injured, it was reported at police headquarters. Leon Hebert, 1222 Dallas avenue, reported to police headquarters Thursday night at 11:55 that he had run down a little girl at Dallas avenue and Seventh street. He told police that he picked her up, carried her to her home and summoned a physician. According to his report at police headquarters, he forgot the child's address and name. She was not seriously hurt, Hebert said.

Thursday afternoon J. M. Ellis, 600 Beaumont avenue, reported to the police that he ran down a negro boy at Fifth street and San Antonio avenue. He carried the boy to the hospital, where it was found the injuries were not serious, and the boy was sent to his home, 1125 Kansas avenue, Ellis reported at the police station.

FRENCH 'TIGER' AT ST. LOUIS

Expects to Round Out Course for France Tonight

NO DEMONSTRATION

"Little Germany" to Hear Plea for U. S. Aid

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 1.—Georges Clemenceau expects to drive the finishing spike in the case he has built for France today.

The Tiger, resting at the country home of Joseph Pulitzer, prepared his fourth American address in which he will completely round out his plea for America's return to European affairs. He will make no more speeches for a week.

Clemenceau slipped quietly into St. Louis today and the city's reception was withheld until tomorrow when he drives into town and speaks at the Odeon. Only a handful of people were at the station, at the Tiger's request.

Pleased With Results
The war premier, after his visit to Lincoln's tomb yesterday, felt so well physically and was so pleased with the results of his first three speeches that he consented to be interviewed.

He indicated his St. Louis address would be more or less a rounding up of his theme, putting the finishing touches to the world picture of America as Europe sees her, which the Tiger paints with ruthless colors.

"What's the news from Europe," he asked to begin with. The party was travelling all Thanksgiving day and saw no newspapers.

Reaching St. Louis, his first thought was for what might be going on in the world.

Painful's Difficulties
The Tiger chuckled as he was told of the detention in his palace of King George, the difficulties of Premier Poincare and the other.

"It's a good thing I'm out," he exclaimed with a twinkle, cocking his black skull cap to one side. "I might be in all that trouble."

Clemenceau waved aside the suggestion he discuss the French attitude towards occupation of the Ruhr. "I'm here on a mission of my own."

The Rivals

"I'll silence Ganna Walska," exclaimed Mme. Luella Mellus, shown above, the famous singer who is fighting the new Mrs. Harold F. McCormick by preparing to secure an injunction in every city where Ganna appears. Mme. Mellus says Ganna's manager broke his contract with her to accept the McCormick offer.

TRAGIC BATTLE WHEN CROWDS STORM PALACE

Agitation Believed Cause of Massacre

MANY BELIEVED DEAD

Machine Guns Spray Big Throng With Bullets

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press)
MEXICO CITY, Mex., Dec. 1.—Not since the "tragic ten days" of 1913 has Mexico City presented such a bloody aspect as dawn revealed this morning after a night of sanguinary rioting.

The rising sun gleamed upon a shambles on the historic Zocalo, before the portals of the smoke-grimed, flame scorched municipal palace.

Estimates of the dead are believed to be at least thirty.

There was no way of telling accurately at the hour of filing this dispatch as many of the dead had been born away by their friends and many of the scores of wounded will die.

In 1913, during the tragic ten days, the fighting was between two groups of men striving for power. Last night's battle was between a horde of mob men with a few women chauffeurs and others, loaded to frenzy because the city water supply had failed, and the soldiers who stood between the mob and the municipal palace. But the results were the same—burning buildings, groans, wails, flames and blood.

Water Plant Falls
Early in the evening the threat formed. The people were angry. Agitators mounted soap boxes and denounced municipal officials for permitting the water plant to be flooded which resulted in putting the on rations—water for one hour a day.

Over the government and its officials, the speakers told the crowd.

"Demand the resignation of city officials. Seize the city hall."

Surge Toward Palace
The people grew more excited and finally began moving in the direction

SCHOOLS IN NEED OF BETTER MUSIC

Macbeth Finds Happiness in Those Having Talent

School bands, orchestra and choral organizations are the greatest source for assuring better music and musicians in America than any other agency, and their encouragement and backing by business men and citizens in general was urged here today by Florence Macbeth, leading coloratura soprano with the Chicago Opera association, who sings at the Elks theater tonight.

"I love the boys and girls of America," Macbeth declared, and cited numbers of occasions when she has sung before high school students throughout the country. "In their response to my singing, I have found the greatest happiness of my career," she said.

Artists "Found" in Schools

"Much of the unhappiness we find about us today is the result of men and women failing to discover their talents. I am sure that in school musical organizations scattered all over the United States there are the great artists of tomorrow, and the opportunities afforded these boys and girls for discovering their musical talents are limited because of music in the schools," Miss Macbeth said.

For the boys and girls with average musical ability who desire to become artists, America now offers training which formerly had to be gotten abroad. Miss Macbeth stated. Study abroad still is a good thing to have, but with the new American bias to give the European training is no longer essential, she said.

"Not only will the development of school music bring about a general appreciation of good music, but it will ultimately develop community opera productions," Miss Macbeth said. "There is a growing desire for better music in the United States. It is curbing the wild recklessness of the younger generation and making its refining influence felt in every phase of social life."

To Ask $30,000,000 Of Next Legislature

AUSTIN, Dec. 1.—Finishing consideration of budgets for the next two fiscal years submitted by the state departments and institutions, the state board of control today announced that total recommendations to the legislature for appropriation will approximately three hundred million dollars. The board said that the gross revenues of the state during the two years will be thirty-six millions. An appropriation of $300,000 for new buildings at the North Texas Normal at Denton is recommended, which is the largest building program for any state educational institution. College of Industrial Arts will receive $300,000 for new buildings and A and M College will get $250,000, including $50,000 for a dormitory for officers.

Vienna Asks Return Of Napoleonic Relics

VIENNA, Dec. 1.—In 1914 the municipality of Vienna sent to the Lyons fair a priceless exhibit of relics of the France-Austrian period of Napoleon's time. They included many memorabilia of the French emperor and of Mary Louisa and other articles of great historic interest. The war ended, and the collection is still in France. This week the mayor of Vienna petitioned the French minister to restore it to the city. It is understood these articles are now in the hands of the French liquidator of interior of the building, spouting from windows, denouncing historic archives, as the machine guns continued their grim chatter. The gunners were driven out from the shelter of the palace by the blaze, but they had the crowd on the run and kept it going. Large masses of humanity were packed in the entrance of the streets leading from the square while behind them on the bloody pavement some forms lay still, and others crawled painfully on all fours seeking a hiding place.

BEAUTY PIN REMOVED FROM CHILD'S LUNG

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Removal of a black-headed beauty pin, one and three-quarters inches in length, from the left lung of Lucille Sand, little daughter of a well-known locally resident, has been accomplished by surgery at a hospital here. The operation, known as bronchoscopy, was performed by Drs. C. M. Hawes and P. O. Murphy. The instrument, was passed into the lung through the windpipe, and the pin was removed, although with considerable difficulty. The operation was an entire success.

Soldiers and police followed the retreating rioters, leading over the bodies of maimed and wounded. They were under orders to disperse the crowd and prevent it from re-assembling. Large sections of the mob were so thoroughly frightened they thought only of flight. A small group, however, set out to pillage the city.

Attack Business House

Yellow and singing, they paraded the principal business streets, shouting through windows and hurling rocks. These men had had their baptism of fire and were out for vengeance. The entrance of federal soldiers went through the streets in the double, seeking to head them off. It was now past midnight, the glow of the burning municipal palace lit the sky, and the progress of the mob could be traced by sound of shots, crashing glass, bells and screams, mingled with the shouting of orders to retreat and the jangling of their accoutrements as they retreated.

Several of these isolated groups retreated to the house of Dr. Alonso Romero, the municipal president. Their way led through deserted streets as merchants had put up their shutters, and the people were keeping out of doors before Dr. Romero's residence. They began firing. Eight rioters fell wounded. The rest fled.

By dawn it was believed the last of the mobs had been broken up.

MORAL UPLIFT FOLLOWING WAR

So Says Rev. Culp in Union Thanksgiving Service

Mingled with the feelings of thanksgiving for many blessings, the Austin people should be conscious of the obligation and duty resting upon them at this time to curb a wave of lawlessness which he declared had swept the country since the war, Rev. C. W. Culp declared in the sermon at the union Thanksgiving service at the First Methodist church yesterday.

The service was well attended and was featured with sacred music numbers. In addition to Rev. Culp, pastor of the First Baptist church, the following local ministers attended and participated in the service: Rev. J. P. Blackstock, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church; Rev. J. W. Ross, pastor of the Nazarene church; Rev. L. B. Frank, pastor of St. George's Episcopal church; Rev. C. R. Robinson, presiding elder Houston district, northern Methodist church; Rev. William Oscher, pastor of the First Christian church.

In discussing the nature of Thanksgiving day, Rev. Culp pointed out the nature and meaning, and the many things the American people have to be thankful for.

In discussing lawlessness, he declared that it was being already offset to a great extent by a wave of moral regeneration following a moral lapse, which he said in turn had followed the war.

The offering, which goes to the Day Nursery, amounted to approximately $40.

GALVESTON WOMAN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

GALVESTON, Texas, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Robert Cole was dead here today as a result of injuries sustained yesterday in an automobile accident. Mrs. Cole was injured when the car in which she was riding collided with another driven by Charles A. Veldner. She was thrown from her car and her head struck a telephone post. H. B. Perry was driving the car. Charges of violating the traffic ordinance were placed against Perry and Veldner.

Until the proposed sanitarium is erected, the organization will care for its members in hospitals and institutions already in operation, Lee declared.

TRAIN CHIEF PAYS STONE RESPECTS

"Sees Everything Through Red Glasses"—Lee

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 1.—The "chief" of the Southern Railway, who has been looking through red glasses all his life.

In this manner W. C. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the central figure in the warfare between the Big Four railway brotherhoods, explained the open break that has occurred between the unions in an interview here recently.

Lee was in Houston on a tour of Southern Railway systems.

Stone is grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and has lined up with the Southern Railway and the Locomotive Union and Engineers' union in a strike alliance against Lee and the Big Four.

"The Southern Railway has been the days of the 'Big Four'," Lee said. "Stone favored it; I opposed it. I opposed the strike because when the last relation in wages was made, I told them the people of this country would stand for a strike. Stone was forced to come over at the last minute."

Lee expressed belief that few remaining railroad still out on strike would soon reach agreements with rail heads and men up.

"We have signed up agreements with many eastern roads lately and all West except a few down here. I think the road in this country will stay up shortly for a working agreement for the next year on present wage schedule."

Lee said his organization had never gone in for government ownership of the railroads. He doesn't favor it. He favors the "Big Four" union act.

Asked his opinion on present railroad rates, Lee said they were high, but not too high. "At that, they have gone no more than wages," he said.

That senator-elect Edwards of New Jersey is the best bet for Democratic nomination for president in the next election is Lee's opinion.

Lee has been all through the East and that's the sentiment, he said.

ELECTRIFICATION IS ON INCREASE OVER TEXAS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 1.—Electrification of a large number of cities and towns throughout the state of Texas is under way and in many instances has been completed, according to R. W. Morrison, president of the Central Power Institute.

A seven hundred and fifty horse power steam turbine is being installed at Corpus Christi in the development of the port there.

A new electrical distributing system and electric water-works is being installed at San Benito. Cuern and Guadalupe are working on power and distribution systems.

The Guadalupe river and water-power dam and powerhouse is being rebuilt and three new 500 horse power waterwheels and generators are being put up.

Power improvements are also being carried out in Beville, Yorktown, Victoria, Center, Carlsburg, Childress, Memphis, and several other towns.

Good Evening Folks!

The bright side of the Far East situation is this side of the Atlantic.

Where the flag goes, there go also civilization and the white man's diseases.

A benefactor never realizes how complete is his fall until he is sent to match a piece of silk.

Breakfast room: A cubby-hole in which the family has dinner and supper unless there is company.

Winter resort: A city. The background sometimes seen accompanying the portrait of a bathing girl.

If he loves his fellow men, he has a genuine religion or a nice collection of tax-free securities.

Cap directing motorists: "Go straight west seventeen filing stations, and then turn to your right."

You can say one thing for a fat man. His love letters always tickle the jury more than a lean man's.

She isn't really an old maid until she begins to dream of a cute kitchen instead of a hand-some knight.

"Greeting a beauty," says a skin specialist. But if you've got a graft, you can get along without beauty.

If she is rich and single, she doesn't think it necessary to brag about the number of proposals she has had.

A magazine writer says girls should be named after illustrious women. All the girls we know were named after Eve.

Every respectable newspaper has in mind a list of obituaries it would like to print for the good of the community.

The cake-eater a girl marries probably doesn't seem so sweetly charming after she begins to take in washing.

Radical. One who devotes his time to knocking his superiors and then complains that they are prejudiced against him.

In the old days the Fool Killer had a lot to do, but that was when there were no accelerators to do the work for him.

It must be a hard job to persuade peaceful and happy savages to believe in the superiority of our Christian civilization.

Still the maid who waited for her knight to come astride a charger was no more romantic than the one who waits for the boy in a fit.

C-O-M-M-E-N-T

President Harding has won one important victory. Great Britain and Italy and France have agreed to the American demand for the abolition of existing treaties and for the open door in Turkey. The British American who and wherever there are of these are a great truth. There are rich of fields and a great deal of what was once known as the Middle East. Great Britain was anxious to grab them. France and Italy wished to be in on the act. The world has been a long time in coming to this. The world has been a long time in coming to this. The world has been a long time in coming to this.

Representative citizens of Randall county have organized the Colorado Valley Irrigation association and will create an irrigation district which will embrace a portion of Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. If the project being promoted on the association goes through, 50,000 acres of fertile land in Randall and the other counties named will be put under irrigation. Following the construction of one of the largest canals in the southwest, Joseph E. Kemp started some work to make it possible for the progressive farmers and farmers of the Wichita country to have a part of the largest irrigation project under such a plan. Conservation of flood waters for irrigation purposes will make the arid sections of Texas the most productive spots on the map of America. It is coming and more than 25 years ago the irrigation of the Colorado valley began the irrigation and the education of the public along conservation and reclamation lines. It is a dream come true. Before many years shall have passed the largest artificial lake or body of water in the south will make it possible for the irrigation of two hundred thousand acres of land in the Wichita Valley. It will make Wichita Falls a city of 100,000 before the coming of 1929. It will be one of the show places of the southwest. Never again will the dreamer see the wilderness blossom like a rose garden.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock led the fight for the ratification of the Venetian Treaty. Now he says that France is making impossible demands and that it is not the purpose of France to get reparations but to crush Germany. Senator Hitchcock went down in defeat November 7. Who defeated him? Senator Hitchcock is a politician and a newspaper publisher. He knows who defeated him and he is building his fence away out in Nebraska hoping to come back some day. This is a prediction: Hitchcock will come back.

AN ANGRY TIGER

Tiger Clemenceau is angry. He was pained when he landed on these shores. He spoke his mind freely and some of the things he said were not flattering to the American people. He broadly intimated that Uncle Sam is a Welcher and that he had withdrawn from Europe when he should have remained there and carried the load.

He has incensed American senators and he has not made friends with Americans who realize that it was this republic and its people who mobilized five million men and spent three billion dollars to save France from the sword of the Kaiser, to restore to France her lost provinces wrested from her by Bismarck and who made it possible for France to remain on the map of nations.

The Tiger is a fighter. He fears no man. He has the courage of his convictions. He is fighting for France and her future. He is more for the wealth of France than he is for the peace of the world.

These who are close to him should tell him that the playing of many regiments in Germany by France was a colossal blunder; that the keeping of negro soldiers in German towns on the Rhine is a colossal blunder.

Americans do not take kindly to retaliatory measures of this kind. They do not believe in playing negro soldiers over white men and women whether it be in Germany or France or Asia or Africa or America.

When the World War came all Americans recalled Lafayette and his glorious soldiers who came to the rescue of the heroes of the Revolution in their darkest hour. They loved France, the France of Lafayette and the France of today.

They paid that debt. They sent two million American heroes to the battle plains of France and Flanders. They were in at the death of the Kaiser. They smashed the gigantic fighting machine that the world has never known. They made it possible for the debris of Europe to remain free.

They made it possible for the people of Germany to tumble their emperor from his throne. They destroyed the house of Hapsburg and the historic Austrian empire.

If it had not been for America the allied nations of Europe today would be paying indemnities to the head of the house of Hohenzollern and the Tiger of France would be in his grave or an exile in some distant land.

MR. JUSTICE BUTLER

The country is interested in the manner of man placed on the supreme court of the United States. It wants to know how he is likely to handle the vital questions which will come before the court. When, therefore, the president reaches out to St. Paul for a successor to Justice Day, the country asks: "Who is Peter Butler?"

The public learns that, although Mr. Butler has not been a conspicuous national figure, he has shown the qualities which promise service in the court full up to what the country expects. His career as a lawyer reaches now from assistant county attorney to supreme justice. That road he has traveled himself. How he traveled that road is shown by the fact that as a member of one of the leading firms of St. Paul he has conducted important litigation, his reputation extending into Canada, where he has served as attorney for the government.

The only instances of public office in his record, after the county attorneyship, are such things as president of bar associations and segment of the Minnesota state university. Though he is classed as a democrat, it is apparent that the law and not politics has been his aim, which explains why the general public is asking: "Who is Peter Butler?"

Mr. Butler's rise as a lawyer and his record of doing well whatever he has done are a promise of useful service on the supreme court. The country allows too little of him to pass on his temperament. He has served corporations, and he has served the government in opposition to corporations, and apparently he has served both kinds of clients with equal fidelity. This gives promise that as supreme court justice he will serve the people with fidelity.

NO MORE LOANS

By resolution congress sought to authorize a loan to Liberia of five million dollars. This was introduced early in the session more than a year ago. It bubbled up again this week. There was opposition to it.

Barth of Idaho is an opponent of additional loans to foreign governments or foreign nations. Barth of Idaho holds to the viewpoint that the foreign nations owe the government eleven billion dollars, principal and interest. This vast debt has not been funded. England has paid fifty million dollars interest money, but everywhere throughout the allied nations of Europe there is a growing demand that the United States shall make a free gift to Europeans of eleven billion dollars.

If the shoe was on the other foot the people of the United States would be compelled to pay. There would be a demand on the part of Europe for the principal and the pound of flesh.

China had a bandit army of 30,000, looters and pillagers and torch bearers of the most ferocious type. China became a republic a few years ago and the followers of Confucius

EPISODE TWELVE
Her Highest Interests
CHAPTER I

Toward noon the wind changed, and about one o'clock it began to snow. Eve, exhausted, lay on the sofa in her bedroom. Her stepfather lay on a table in the dining hall below, covered by a sheet from his own bed and beside him sat Trooper Stormont, waiting.

It was snowing heavily when Mr. Loken, the little undertaker from Ghost Lake, arrived with several assistants, a casket, and what he called "well trimmings."

Long ago Mike Clench had selected his own mortuary site and had driven a section of iron pipe into the ground on a ferry knoll overlooking Star Pond. In explanation he grimly remarked to Eve that after death he preferred to be buried where he could see that old Harold's ghost didn't trespass.

Here two of Mr. Loken's able assistants dug a grave while the digging was still going; for if Mike Clench was to be understood that season there might be need of haste—no weather prophet ever having successfully forecast a December weather.

Eve, exhausted by shock and a sleepless night, was spared the more harrowing details of the casket's rest and the subsequent burial activities of Mr. Loken and his efficient assistants.

She had managed to dress herself in a black wool gown, intending to watch by Mike, but Stormont's blunt authority prevailed and she lay down for an hour's rest.

The hour lengthened into many hours; the girl slept heavily on her sofa under blankets laid over her by Stormont.

All that dark, snowy day she slept, peacefully unconscious of the proceedings below.

In its own mysterious way the news penetrated the wilderness and out of the desolation of forest and swamp and mountain drifted there a few shivering, half-wild young girls, a dozen or so, huddled together under the shelter of a fallen tree.

One lone-headed youth out from the back of the line, however, crept a little closer to the huddled group, making of the end of a "pile."

A young woman from the back of the line, however, crept a little closer to the huddled group, making of the end of a "pile."

When Mike was ready to hold the inevitable reception everybody filed into the dining hall. Mr. Loken was a man of ceremony; Trooper Stormont stood very tall and straight by the head of the casket.

Clench wore a vague, indefinable smile and his best clothes—that same smile which had so troubled Joe Quintana.

Light was fading fast in the room when the last visitor took silent leave of Clench and rejoined the groups in the kitchen, where were the funeral laments.

Eve still slept. Descending again from his room, Stormont encountered Trooper Lanken below.

"Has anybody picked up Quintana's tracks?" inquired the former.

"Not so far. An inspector and two State Game protectors are out here hunting for him. The Trooper from Lone Lake are on the job, and we have enforcement men along Browned Valley from the State to Harold Place."

"Does Darragh know?"

"Yes, he's in there with Mike. He brought a lot of flowers from Harold Place."

The two Troopers went into the dining hall where Darragh was arranging the flowers from his green house.

Stormont said quietly: "All right, Jim, but Eve must not know that they came from Harold's."

Darragh nodded: "How is she, Jane?"

"All in."

"Do you know the story?"

"Yes, Mike went into Browned Valley early last evening after Quintana. He didn't come back. Before dawn this morning I've located Quintana, set a bear trap for him, and caught him with the goods."

"What goods?" demanded Darragh sharply.

"Well, he got his park and found Mike's watch and jewelry in it."
